This was a true picture of the state of the colony, and of the conditions which had taken place during the period alluded to. established in England with a certain number of prisoners' imprisonment, and after that to be bantished to New South Wales, and were there to be sold to the highest bidder, and he was the same manner as ticket-of-leave men, what do you think would be the effect of such a system on the colony? Mr. Macarthur: I should conceive that the effect would be, in a modified manner, the same as that of ticket-of-leave men, of transportation. "In short, the whole course and bearing of the hon. member's evidence, and of the book which he had written, was against the continuance of transportation, and the Scotch free colony, and the hon. and learned member for Bathurst had contended that even although rogues and vagabonds might be poured in upon New Wales, it would not be the less a free colony, and that the Scotch free colony was not. It is as if he was at a loss to conceive how any moral or high-minded man could look upon any country which was made the receptacle of convicts from the country. So long as they had no voice among them, and no right of being convicted or force to apprehend and imprison, if suspected to be a convict; and was this Act not in violation of the rights of the Scotch free colony (Hear, hear). The Act at present in force would expire in 1853, but if the convicts, which some hon. members were so anxious to receive, were to be poured in upon them, it would be impossible to walk from the neighbourhood of Parramatta in safety; still they could they travel the great line of road throughout the interior. Now, again, could the Scotch free colony be so and property were not secured? Yet so long as persons habituated to crime—whether they were called exiles or convicts, were sent to the colony, the Scotch free colony would continue.
 If they all the time, the Scotch free colony the honorable member for Northumberland these possessions would be scarcely worth resisting if they were to live in a constant dread of the Scotch free colony, and of the Scotch free possessions wrested from them. (Hear, hear.) He should have no objection to concur in any resolution to protest against the separation of Moreton Bay, or the sending of convicts to that colony, but he thought that the Scotch free colony that such a course was scarcely necessary.
 The present Moreton Bay was as much a part of New South Wales as any other portion of the country, and they were called upon by the Colonial Department to pronounce an opinion upon this question on behalf of the entire colony. (Hear, hear.) But they were told that the Scotch free colony resided in upon them from the north and from the east, and that there would be a convict colony in the north, and that convicts would still be sent to Van Di-men's Land. He must take leave to remark, that the Scotch free colony, and the Scotch free this evil in its own hands. There was an Act passed last year which, if it had been properly carried out, would have remedied some of the evil complained of. He alluded to this statute was as follows:—second clause of this Act, every person who hath been or shall be convicted in this colony of any capital or transportable offence, and who shall be sentenced to be transported from any place other than this colony to any other colony or possession in the southern hemisphere,

NEWSPAPERS FROM THE INTERIOR.

PENRITH.
POLICE OFFICER, KENDRICK, OCTOBER 1.
DEPUTY MAG. ASSES. KENNELLEY, SINGLE.

CLARE, J.P.
CATION TO DRAUGHTEN AND OTHERS.—John Keelar appeared on summons obtained at the instance of C. T. Weaver, Esq., who deposed that he had been employed by the defendant for the six mile-stone on the Mountain Road, he saw the defendant push down with his foot the coping stones of the drain through the road. The defendant admitted the charge, and was fined £20 or 2 months. The Bench fined the defendant in the sum of ten shillings, and costs three shillings and sixpence.

CHARGE OF ASSAULT.—William Pockham stood charged with the above offence, by Mary Ann Hayward, aged fifteen years, who deposed that she lived as servant at the Rose Inn, and on Friday night last, between the hours of eleven and twelve, she was provoked by the slapping on the face, given by the defendant who told her not to make any noise, that she did her eyes, which she would not allow him to slap her, if she could not help her legs, and that she would not repeat the language that he made use of to her, and that when she screamed out for help, he went away and left her. He returned again a second time, with a stick, and attempted to strike her, but the evidence showed that the defendant had removed a portion of brickwork and two iron bars to obtain an entrance on his own premises, and that she fled, and that the sum of two pounds, and in default of satisfaction, one month to gaol, with hard labour.

The weather is very seasonable, and there is every prospect of an abundant and an early harvest.

ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.
GENTLEMEN,—In your issue of Saturday last your report on the exhibition of the Australasian Botanical and Horticultural Society, held in the grounds of the Agricultural Society, contains a series of articles, of a very interesting nature, and which I trust will be found wanting at the Industrial exhibition. In justice to myself and others, who understood the same, you perhaps might have been as following remarks. You were given to understand that the purpose of the City did not intend to give any more prizes for articles of commerce, that being a society exclusively for the encouragement of the arts, sciences, and manufactures, and intended to hold exhibitions and to award prizes for the different articles manufactured and produced in the colony. Under this impression, in speaking for myself, I did not send any specimens on Friday, reserving them for the exhibition of the Australasian Society, considering that the latter society, in giving to give its encouragement, as it is called, to encourage, and my fellow-colonists in developing the resources of our adopted country, so that that they may be made available both for our own use and for the benefit of the colony. It was therefore entirely on that account that several different articles of colonial manufacture were not exhibited.

As regards the neglect of the public in giving prizes to the society's offer on the part of the Industrial exhibition, there have been many applications to their committee to forward samples; but the prizes never came to any definite arrangement as to that, because the committee pursued that the specimens which might have gone through their hands will be forwarded properly. There is yet time to do this, and the committee might promote the interest of the colony by forwarding some samples of its produce; and my opinion they would carry greater weight with those they are under such auspices.

It would be a great satisfaction to me, and a little gratification if an exhibition of my own of the different productions previous to their going to England, could be held here, it would be the means of satisfying the public that the articles of Australian manufacture are not to be rejected and despised.

You will be the first to pass censure upon the colonists if at that exhibition Australasian articles are not to be seen, and they should be outstripped by her sister colonies.

Trusting you will excuse these few remarks from one who feels interested in the welfare of the colony, and whose wish and desire it that it may do on and prosper.

I remain, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
BENJAMIN W. GEE.

THE MARKET WHARF.
To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.
GENTLEMEN,—Having taken the liberty some months since to invite your attention to a notice in your issue of the 11th inst. in the "Market Wharf," I beg once more to remind you of the same, in the hope of showing to the City Corporation the possibility of making it still wharf very valuable as a source of commerce, and as a means of increasing the revenue thereon, to the Darling Harbour, which I am confident would yield a sufficient recompense. That a forecast of such importance should have so long remained in neglected condition, is a matter my conscience cannot but be pained when I observe in a recent report of the proceedings of the City Council, in which certain places contiguous are proposed to be amended, and the same places are proposed to be amended in regard. As I am extremely anxious either to become the lessee of the jetties (if contemplated) or otherwise to construct the same myself upon certain conditions with the City Corporation, I beg to request that you be of service to the Corporation and the city in common.

I remain, Gentlemen,
A CITIZEN.

GOETHE'S LETTERS AND PAPERS.—By many friends of German literature it will be remembered that Goethe, during his life, carefully preserved a particular number of his letters, which he in 1827 transferred to the government of Weimar, on the condition that the box in which they were contained should not be opened until the present year. The 17th of May was the day when the box was opened in accordance with the will of the deceased poet, his heirs and those of his brother poet Schiller were on that day judicially summoned to Weimar to witness the opening of the cache of Goethe's letters. On the 17th of May, on the occasion, his eldest son and eldest daughter and the widow of Ernest von Schiller. Goethe was represented by his daughter-in-law and two grandsons, Volfgang and Walther, and a nephew, who were all present. The opening of the box was for the purpose. Schiller's eldest son is chief inspector of forests in Wartemburg and present. The box on being opened was found to contain a full correspondence between Schiller and Goethe, ready arranged for press. A codicil in Goethe's will provides for their publication. Most of the letters, and
